III. Local and National Agency Employment

Executive Director, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, North Hollywood, California, 1974 – present.

This private, non-profit research, training and community service organization was founded by Dr. Alvy in 1974. His duties as Executive Director have included developing Board members and maintaining Board member relations (Dr. Alvy is President of the Board). He supervises the daily operation of the organization, writes grant proposals and represents the organization in public and through the media. He also provides organization oversight of CICC's various research, training and community service projects, for which he is the main designer and creator. Dr. Alvy is also responsible for the recruitment, hiring and evaluation of all employees.

Founder and Founding Board Member, National Effective Parenting Initiative, North Hollywood, California, September 2006 – present.

Dr. Alvy founded, directs and serves on the Board of this coalition of individuals and organizations that advocates, celebrates and promotes effective parenting and parenting education. The goal of this national organization, which consists of three complementary membership programs for Parents, Professionals and Organizations, is to help create the conditions in the United States where it will eventually make it possible for it to become the birthright of every child to be raised by loving and skillful parents who receive the best possible parenting education and support. Its activities thus far have included (1) an online Effective Parenting Petition which Dr. Alvy composed that is being signed by persons throughout the nation in support of making effective parenting and parenting education national priorities, (2) the design and advocacy of a federal government-led effective parenting initiative which Dr. Alvy wrote, (3) a December 2006 White House Briefing to present the initiative which Dr. Alvy negotiated and led, (4) the development of a Board of Advisors consisting of top parenting and parenting education authorities that Dr. Alvy spearheaded, (5) the bringing together of more than 30 national and local parenting institutions as Organizational Affiliates which Dr. Alvy also generated, and (6) the creation of a model for community-led effective parenting initiatives or projects which contains many of the elements of the earlier government-led initiative that Dr. Alvy designed.

Founder and Director, Uniting Los Angeles for Effective Parenting Project, North Hollywood, California, January 2008 – present.

This five year, community-led effective parenting initiative, which Dr. Alvy designed and which is organized by the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring and the National Effective Parenting Initiative, is intended to reinforce and expand the parenting enhancement infrastructure of the County of Los Angeles by building on, improving and increasing the numbers of parenting programs and services that already exist. The project includes (1) a multi-faceted public education campaign to raise awareness about what constitutes effective parenting in the 21st century and the role of parenting education in being an effective contemporary parent, (2) building the capacity of local institutions to provide the full spectrum of modern parenting and family skill-building services and programs, (3) centralized telephone and Internet information, referral and enrollment services, (4) community wide effective parenting expositions, and (5) an effective parenting council to coordinate and provide quality control. The Project Partners which Dr. Alvy is in charge of securing include county and city elected officials (county supervisors, city council members, mayors, etc.), community-based organizations, federated funding groups, schools and school districts, foundations and corporations, related family and child businesses, etc. Going into its first effective parenting council meeting in July 2008, the project has 14 such partners including the United Way of Greater Los Angeles, one county supervisor, four city council members, several community-based agencies like the Mexican American Opportunities Foundation, and corporate financial supporters like the Xerox and Morgan Stanley.

Continuing Education Director, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, North Hollywood, California, 1975 – present.

Dr. Alvy selects, reviews and/or develops all of CICC's continuing education offerings, including national and local professional training conferences, national and local parenting instructor training workshops, and national and local workshops and courses that are designed for specific professional personnel such as psychologists, social workers, counselors, educators, childcare professionals, and physicians. He serves as the key liaison person to accrediting and funding bodies over all of CICC's CE programs. CICC's programs are accredited by such groups as the American Psychological Association.

Editor, Primary Writer, Effective Parenting Newsletter, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, North Hollywood, California, September 2005 – present.

Dr. Alvy selects the topics, reviews the research and writes and edits each issue of this online newsletter for human service and educational professionals and heads of school districts, federal, state and local agencies. As of May 2008, the newsletter has over 41,000 subscribers nationwide.

Director, National Partnership Campaign to Find and Help Young Children with Special Needs, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, Studio City, California, October 2004 - 2006.

This nationwide campaign helped to mobilize individuals and organizations to partner with CICC in educating parents of young children to be alert to any special developmental, behavioral or emotional needs in their children and to move into action at the first signs of such needs. Its goal was to increase the numbers of children under five with special needs who are identified and helped before entering school, and to educate parents and communities about the importance of early identification and early intervention. The Campaign utilized the online CICC Discovery Tool and Referral System as its central education, screening and referral service.

Project Director, “Does My Child Have Special Needs?” Project, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, Studio City, Calif., May 2001 – May 2004.

This three year project was funded by the Los Angeles County Children and Families First Proposition 10 Commission (First 5 LA). It produced several vehicles for helping to identify young children with special needs (discovery or identification tools that were used as part of the project website and in numerous project publications for parents and childcare professionals), a multi-faceted website, and a new Developmental Assessment Course for Psychologists. It also provided treatment services for young children with special needs within the natural environment of childcare centers and family childcare homes, training for childcare professionals to identify and help such children, training allied health professionals to deliver parent training services for parents of young children with special needs, and training for early childhood education personnel on how best to manage the behavior of children with special needs. Working Together to Help Young children with special Needs conferences were conducted at UCLA for the full spectrum of professionals who treat, educate and care for young children with special needs. Budget: $1,000,000 per year

Project Director, Antelope Valley Childcare System and Parent Education Project, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, Studio City, Calif., May 2001 – May 2004.

This three year project was funded by the Los Angeles County Children and Families First Proposition 10 Commission (First 5 LA). It provided a variety of parenting education classes, seminars and self-instructional materials for parents whose children participated in the childcare system in Antelope Valley, and it prepared childcare professionals to be Effective Parenting Advocates. Over 20,000 parents were served. This project was patterned after the similar project for the San Fernando Valley. Budget: $500,000 per year

Project Director, San Fernando Valley Childcare System and Parent Education Project, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, Studio City, Calif., July 2000 – June 2003.

This three year project was funded by the Los Angeles County Children and Families First Proposition 10 Commission (First 5 LA). It brought a wide range of parenting classes, seminars and self-instructional materials into the childcare system in the San Fernando Valley, and prepared childcare professionals to be Effective Parenting Advocates. Over 20,000 parents were served. The project became a model for how to bring parenting education into the early childhood care and education system. Budget: $300,000 per year

Primary Consultant/Expert Panelist, Parent Training and Substance Abuse Prevention Project, Office for Substance Abuse Prevention, ADAMHA, Rockville, MD, 1988 – 1989.

This national project involved the (1) creation of a National Expert panel on Parenting as Prevention, which Dr. Alvy led, (2) the creation of a resource manual on Parenting As Prevention, for which Dr. Alvy wrote a major chapter on the scientific justification of parent training as a substance abuse prevention strategy, and distilled ten specific roles parents can play in substance use prevention, and (3) five regional conferences on Parenting As Prevention for representatives of ten states per conference, for which Dr. Alvy delivered a keynote address and chaired a panel of experts who spoke on the ten specific roles.

Project Director, Statewide Parenting Instructor Training Project: Black and Hispanic Parenting Programs, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1989 – 1990.

This project was funded by the California Department of Drug and Alcohol Programs. It consisted of workshops in Southern and Northern California to train human service agency personnel to deliver CICC's Effective Black Parenting and Los Niños Bien Educados programs to families throughout the state.

Project Director, Statewide Parent Training Project, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1987 – 1988.

This project consisted of conducting two major conferences, one in Northern California and one in Southern California, to showcase a wide range of parent training programs for state drug and alcohol, mental health, social service and educational professionals, and two instructor training workshops to prepare 35 professionals to deliver a behaviorally-based parent training program in communities throughout California.

Project Director, Hispanic Parenting Program, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1986 – 1988.

This project was funded by a grant from the Mattel Foundation and it consisted of refining a parent training curriculum for Hispanic parents, Los Niños Bien Educados, field testing it in schools of the Los Angeles Unified School District and in the Los Angeles Catholic Archdiocese, and working with these institutions to incorporate the program on an on-going basis.

Conference Co-Chairman, The Third National Parenting Symposium.

This conference was co-sponsored by the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring and the International Society for Research in Parenting. It was conducted at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, March 26-29, 1987.

Project Director, Countywide Parenting Information Service, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1983 – 1985.

The directorship of this regional project consisted of the design and on-going supervision of a model telephone counseling and referral service for linking parents and professionals throughout Los Angeles County to the available parent training programs and childcare resources. The project was funded by private foundation grants and service contracts with the County of Los Angeles.

Project Director, Programs for Parents, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1974 – 1985.

The leadership of this regional project included the design, selection and implementation of 30 different parent training programs at various community sites throughout Los Angeles County. These programs were funded by corporate and foundation grants and participant fees.

Project Director, Countywide Child Abuse Information Center, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1976 – 1977.

This project was funded by the County of Los Angeles and consisted of a telephone counseling and referral service about the identification, reporting, treatment and prevention of child abuse and neglect, and technical assistance and educational services to community agencies, hospitals, school districts, and mental health agencies.

Project Director, Child-Parent Mental Health Worker Training Project, Kedren Community Mental Health Center, South Central Los Angeles, 1974 – 1977.

This project was funded by the Manpower Division of the National Institute of Mental Health and prepared indigenous mental health workers for employment in child mental health settings.

Director of Research and Evaluation, Kedren Community Mental Health Center, South Central Los Angeles, 1972 – 1974.

Head, Children's Mental Health Services, Kedren Community Mental Health Center, 1972.
Staff Psychologist, Children's Services, Kedren Community Mental Health Center, 1970 – 1971.

Staff Psychologist, Rensselear County Community Mental Health Center, Troy, New York, 1968 – 1970.

Probation Counselor, Juvenile Hall, Los Angeles, California, 1962 – 1964.

V. Research and Demonstration Grant Support

Principal Investigator, "How is My Child Doing?" Research Study, Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 2002-2004. This study further researched the reliability and validity of the tool that CICC developed as part of the "Does My Child Have Special Needs?" Project to help identify young children with special needs, The CICC Discovery Tool. The study was supported by grant funds from First 5 LA, the Los Angeles County Proposition 10 Commission. More than 300 families were involved.

Principal Investigator, Drug Abuse Prevention and Black Parent Training, a research project funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse and conducted by the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1985 – 1988. Total Budget: $790,000. The project was a controlled, longitudinal field test of CICC's Effective Black Parenting Program with inner city African American parents and children.

Co-Principal Investigator, Socio-Familial Context of Black Drug Use and Delinquency, a research project jointly funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse and the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention, and conducted by the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1987 – 1989. Total Budget $106,133. The project tested a model to predict which inner city African American children are likely to become drug users and/or delinquents.

Principal Investigator, Culturally-Adapted Parent Training, a research project funded by the National Institute of Mental Health and conducted by the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1979 – 1981. Total Budget: $350,000. The project involved the development of special parent training programs for African and Latino American parents, and basic research that compared the child rearing attitudes and practices of parents from different cultures.

Principal Investigator, Expansion of the Personnel for Parent Development Programs, a training and research grant from the National Institute of Mental Health to the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1979 – 1981. Total Budget: $283,000. The project added on additional training activities to an earlier program and field tested the revised national training model by training additional parenting instructors.

Principal Investigator, Personnel for Parent Development Program, a training grant from the National Institute of Mental Health to the Center for the Improvement of Child Caring, 1977 – 1979. Total Budget: $176,000. The project developed and tested a national model for preparing mental health, social service and educational personnel to deliver group parent training services in their agencies and schools.

Principal Investigator, Indigenous Mental Health Workers for Children Services, a research and training project funded by the National Institute of Mental Health and conducted by Kedren Community Mental Health Center, South Central Los Angeles, California, 1974 - 1977. Total Budget: $367,000. The project developed a national model for training workers from the local community to deliver child mental health services.
